At the heart of effective partnerships

It's important that you only recommend a benefit if you're sure of the quality and expertise of the provider. Denplan not only provide information and guidance based on the latest news from within the dental industry, but also provide the support of an award winning customer service team and account management team to ensure an effective and long-lasting partnership.

But don't just take our word for it...Brigitte Braham from IT services company, Wavex, said: "We've been offering Denplan for five years now, and over 75% of the workforce has opted for it as part of their flexible benefit package.

"It was really important that we chose a dental payment plan specialist that could offer great value for money as well as excellent customer service, for both us and our employees. Denplan was the obvious choice as they're such a recognisable brand and offered us a wide-range of plans to suit our needs.

"Our employees think that the benefit is useful and accessible and Denplan have also been great at dealing with employee's claims quickly. I would have no problem recommending dental as a benefit, as it's been hugely popular here at Wavex and Denplan have been instrumental in its success."
