Why is your oral health so important?

Did you know that numerous different types of lesions and diseases can be identified in the mouth?* Diseases such as diabetes can be spotted this way as well as cardiovascular conditions and strokes. Therefore maintaining your oral health by regularly visiting your dentist can help keep you generally healthy.

What is preventive care?

It is about stopping dental problems occurring by making sure your oral health is maintained, so that potential problems are spotted and treated before they cause pain and require costly treatment.

Being seen regularly by your dentist can help prevent:

- Gum disease - caused by a build up of plaque which, in the worst case, could mean loss of teeth
- Mouth cancer - this affects around 5,300 people every year in the UK (BDHF 2009) but if detected early by your dentist can be successfully treated
- Dental emergencies - the better the condition of your oral health the less likely you are to suffer a dental emergency

What to do in a dental emergency?

If you're in the UK and need to visit a dentist urgently but are having trouble finding one, we can help with our unique Find a Dentist service. You can either visit www.denplan.co.uk or call us on 0800 7315 052 and we will help you find one.

If you're abroad you can visit any dentist and, again, we can help you find one through our dental emergency helpline which you can call on +44 (0)1962 844 571.

If you have a dental emergency, here are some first aid tips to help you out.

Useful top tips from the dental experts:

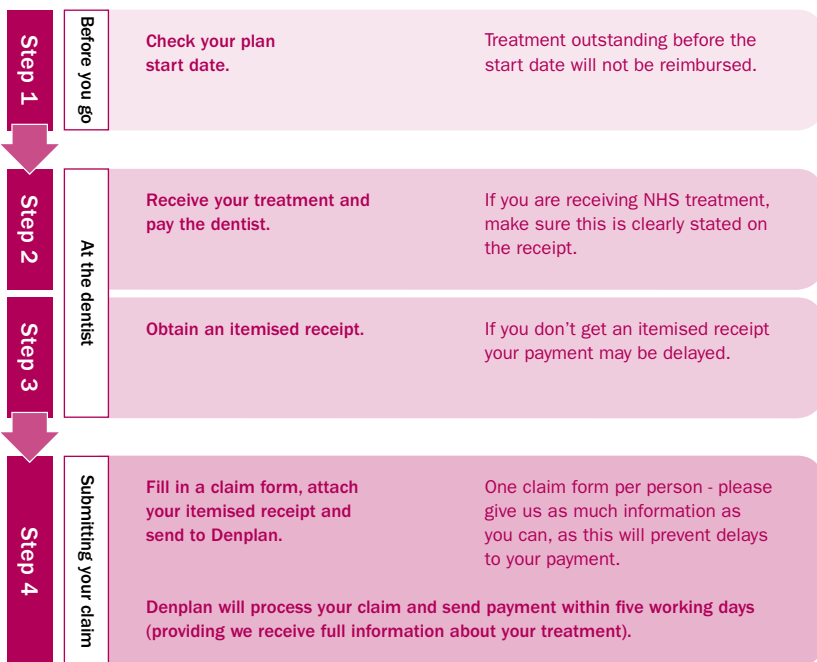

- Clean the area around the sore tooth thoroughly
- Rinse the mouth vigorously with luke warm (body temperature) salt water to dislodge trapped food or debris
- Do not use very hot or very cold salt water as this may inflame the gums
- If your face is swollen, apply a cold compress and get help from a dentist as soon as possible
- Cold water rinses may temporarily ease the pain from a throbbing tooth
- Avoid lying down as this raises the blood pressure and increases pain
