Denplan launches new updated benefits for April 2009

Denplan has recently launched a new range of products which allow employees to be more flexible in the way they use dental cover arranged by Denplan. The key change allows employees to claim back 100% of any NHS charges.*

Last year, employees electing for a dental plan had to make a choice between NHS or private dental plans. Employees without a current dentist were faced with choosing a plan without knowing how they would receive their dental treatment in the future. To help address this, Denplan is now allowing employees to claim back 100% of NHS treatment costs on Denplan Essential, Essential Plus, Extensive and Extensive Plus.

Another major product enhancement removes restrictions in Scotland and Northern Ireland and now allows employees in these regions to elect for 100% NHS cover. This change has come about due to demand from employers and gives you the flexibility to sell this product to all firms with UK-based employees.

Check out the full benefits of the new plans, which are available for plans commencing from 1st April 2009, at www.denplan.co.uk/company-plans
